Resposta da Hamas à proposta de cessar-fogo e soltura de reféns seria "negativa", mas as discussões continuam

Um alto oficial da Hamas disse à agência de notícias AFP na noite passada que, no momento, a resposta do grupo à proposta de cessar-fogo mediada pelo Egito e Qatar é "negativa", mas que as discussões ainda estão cassino americano online andamento.

O objetivo do grupo ainda é um "fim para esta guerra", Suhail al-Hindi disse à AFP. O grupo está entendido para buscar uma retirada completa dos soldados israelenses do solo cassino americano online Gaza, com a proposta de que então haverá um programa de reconstrução extensa para o território durante o qual ele se abstenha de reconstruir quaisquer instalações militares.

Isso contradiz os objetivos declarados do primeiro-ministro israelense Benjamin Netanyahu, que sinalizou que Israel pretende montar uma operação terrestre cassino americano online Rafah independentemente do resultado de um acordo. Israel argumenta que os combatentes da Hamas fugiram para o sul da faixa de Gaza. "Entraremos cassino americano online Rafah e eliminaremos as batalhões hamas lá com ou sem um acordo", disse Netanyahu na semana passada.

O esboço do programa de soltura de reféns proposto acredita-se ser uma pausa de 40 dias no combate enquanto inicialmente as mulheres são libertadas cassino americano online lotes de três a cada três dias. A Hamas e outros grupos acreditam terem sequestrado e sequestrado cerca de 250 pessoas cassino americano online 7 de outubro de dentro do sul de Israel, com 133 deles acreditados ainda detidos cativos, não todos eles acreditados serem vivos.

Hindi, falando para a AFP por telefone de um local não revelado, disse que haveria "grande interesse" da Hamas e de todas as facções de resistência palestinas cassino americano online "pôr fim a esta guerra louca sobre o povo palestino, que consumiu tudo".

"Mas não será a qualquer custo", ele adicionou, sublinhando que o grupo "não pode cassino americano online nenhuma circunstância hastear a bandeira branca ou render-se às condições do inimigo israelense".

O ministro das Relações Exteriores do Egito Sameh Shoukry chamou todos os lados para "mostrar a flexibilidade necessária" para alcançar um acordo "que pare a derramamento de sangue dos palestinos". O ministério de saúde Hamas-liderado colocou o número de mortos cassino americano online Gaza cassino americano online mais de 35.000.

Visitando a região nos últimos dias, o secretário de Estado dos EUA Antony Blinken disse que a Hamas era o único obstáculo para garantir uma pausa no combate, e que eles precisam "decidir rapidamente" para aceitar o que ele descreveu como uma "generosa" oferta de Israel.

- O ministério de saúde liderado pela Hamas tem emitido números de vítimas atualizados, alegando que pelo menos 34.568 palestinos foram mortos e 77.765 feridos nos ataques militares israelenses cassino americano online Gaza desde 7 de outubro. Não foi possível para jornalistas verificar independentemente os números de vítimas sendo divulgados durante o conflito.
- A Universidade da Califórnia cassino americano online Los Angeles estava com choque na quarta-feira após um ataque noturno violento de contrademonstrantes a um acampamento de protesto pró-palestino, enquanto o governador do estado condenou uma resposta lenta da lei a enfrentamentos piores desde que estudantes de todo os EUA intensificaram seus protestos cassino americano online apoio a Gaza.
- A repressão a protestos pró-palestinos cassino americano online universidades dos EUA se espalhou na quarta-feira após pungas de campus amplificarem noite dentro, levando a alguma violência e centenas de prisões adicionais enquanto universidades chamam a polícia e reivindicações sobre "agitadores externos" dirigindo o escalonamento.
- O presidente da Colômbia anunciou que seu governo encerrará as relações diplomáticas com Israel em mais um escalonamento da furiosa briga entre os países sobre a guerra cassino americano online Gaza. Dirigindo-se a uma grande manifestação no Dia do Trabalhador cassino americano online Bogotá na quarta-feira, Gustavo Petro descreveu novamente o cerco de Gaza como "genocídio". "Amanhã [quinta-feira] as relações diplomáticas com o Estado de Israel serão cortadas ... por ter um governo, por ter um presidente que é genocida", disse Petro.

Eventos chave

Once upon a time, every new superhero movie seemed to exist in (not-so) splendid isolation. Michael Keaton's Batman never met Christopher Reeve's Superman, despite the cities of Gotham and Metropolis being situated less than 300 miles apart in many DC comic book tales. When Sony's Spider-Man found himself under threat from the likes of the Green Goblin, Doc Ock and even a nefarious Symbiote in the early to mid-noughties Tobey Maguire films, he did not dial up Iron Man or send an email into space for the attention of one Thor Odinson of Asgard – because those characters were inconveniently owned by someone else. Only in the comics was Ant-Man likely to bump into the Hulk, or Mister Fantastic make the acquaintance of Captain America.

It was Marvel Studios, beginning with 2012's The Avengers, that popularised a brave new world of interconnected superheroes who, in many ways, broke all the rules of superhero film-making. Suddenly, heroes and villains were capable of extended, multiple episode character arcs that added a richness and realism to proceedings that had rarely been seen before. Iron Man might just have invented time travel, but on a psychoanalytic level he felt like a real person capable of genuine human emotions, soaring success, abject failure ... ahem, casual sexism ... and everything in between. Each new superhero to emerge fully formed into the Marvel multiverse felt intelligently connected to all the others, ripples in the fabric of reality in one corner of the multiversal web somehow affecting matters somewhere else entirely in unexpected ways (at least until the more recent, weaker films).

All of which might leave us wondering exactly why Marvel supremo Kevin Feige has just revealed that the new Fantastic Four film, in which Reed Richards, the Invisible Woman, the Human Torch and the Thing are about to debut for Marvel movies, will take place (at least initially) somewhere that does not seem to be in the MCU at all. Speaking on the latest episode of the Official Marvel Podcast, Feige confirmed suggestions that the film will be set in the 1960s, but hinted heavily that this will be a very different version of 20th-century terrestrial reality to any we've yet seen.

"It is a period film," said Feige. "There was another piece of art we released with Johnny Storm flying in the air, making the 4 symbol and there was a cityscape in the corner of the image. And there were a lot of smart people who noticed that the cityscape doesn't look exactly like the New York that we know or the New York that existed in the '60s in our world. Those were smart observations."

This is nothing new for Marvel, in a sense. The advent of alternate realities in episodes such as Spider-Man: No Way Home and Doctor Strange in the Multiverse of Madness, not to mention the TV series Loki, means we're used to seeing our heroes jumping from one universe to the next. Moreover, the absence of the Fantastic Four from the MCU would explain why nobody has ever mentioned them up until now. And yet if Feige really is hinting that the team will begin their journey in a different universe to the Earth 616 we've become used to, and which so closely resembles our own without the superheroes, this is still something new and different.

Rather than starting out in our own world, these are superheroes from another universe who are (presumably) likely at some stage to make the time and reality jump so that they interact with the characters we already know. That is after all, kind of the point of Marvel on the big screen, even to the extent that we now have superheroes who once existed in entirely different film series – Spider-Man and his various enemies in No Way Home; Deadpool and Wolverine in the forthcoming Shawn Levy film – happily fistbumping the MCU crew.

Of course, Marvel might just do something truly original here and keep the awesome foursome trapped in their own world, despite the fact that they have every means of bringing them into the big, multiversal picture. Who wouldn't want to explore a super-stylised, fantasy take on the 1960s where everything is slightly different from our own world, in appealingly far-out and intriguing ways? Maybe the Beatles are all Martians – who knows how weird this stuff could get? But wouldn't that, in a sense, be cheating, given how Marvel has spent all its time and effort since 2008's Iron Man convincing us that everything is connected, to the extent that every other studio making superhero movies has become too embarrassed to do anything but mimic its more successful rival?

The short odds are on the Fantastic Four making the leap pretty quickly. It might not happen in the space of a single movie but, when it does, the results could be seismic – or at least amusing. For if advance publicity really does offer a realistic look at the groovy retro world where the quartet begin their journey, this is going to be the nuttiest fish-out-of-water tale since Arnold Schwarzenegger went chariot racing and fought a bear in Central Park in 1970's Hercules in New York.
