Louie Hinchliffe: el corredor británico que superó los 9,95 segundos en los 100m

In only 9.95 seconds, the British sprinter Louie Hinchliffe became the first European to win the 100m race at the National Collegiate Athletic Association Championships in the United States on Saturday. After the race, the 21-year-old from Sheffield revealed how a WhatsApp message to the nine-time Olympic champion Carl Lewis changed his life.

"I did everything I could, it's what I've been training for all year", said Hinchliffe after a late start that led to victory in Eugene, Oregon, in a time that made him the sixth fastest Briton of all time.

But, as he admitted, it has been a journey since he was 16 years old when he wanted to be a professional golfer and when he went to Lancaster University to study administration and IT at 18 years old, he spent more time at parties than training, as there was no track nearby. "I used to take a bus twice a week, for 30 minutes, to train", he said. "I had no support, I was just a student."

Winning the 2024 British sprint championship earned him a sports scholarship at Washington University, where he continued to improve. But his big breakthrough came last year after he managed to find the phone number of the 100m Olympic champion of 1984 and 1988, Carl Lewis, and a coach at Houston University.

"I had some problems with my knee and my back", said Hinchliffe. "I didn't have much direction. He said: 'Let's talk'. We had a long phone call and I saw a lot of potential in me."

That phone call led Hinchliffe, who had also run a time assisted by the wind of 9.84 seconds last month, to move to Houston to study – and now to break the 10-second barrier. "I've always been there. It's about finding the right place, the right conditions and the right stadium", he said.

Ahora se prepara para competir en los campeonatos del Reino Unido en Mánchester a finales de este mes, que actúan como las pruebas británicas para los Juegos Olímpicos de París de este verano. "Tengo que olvidarme de esto, porque el trabajo principal es llegar a los Juegos Olímpicos", dice.

La confianza de Carl Lewis en Hinchliffe

Por su parte, Lewis tiene plena confianza en que Hinchliffe lo logrará. "Será grande", dijo Lewis de Hinchliffe. "Participará en los Juegos Olímpicos de este año, lo sé".
